Kleptomania Free Download (2022)

Kleptomania is an application that allows you to capture text and graphics from any kind of application based on the Textract technology. It's a on OCR system tray tool that can be controlled by mouse actions, as well as hotkey commands. It's easy to use, practical and enables you to select text and graphics even from clipboard-unaware applications. Kleptomania puts five selection modes at your disposal, each with a distinct functionality that stands out in different cases. With this tool you are able to capture text just like in MS Word, by simply selecting the needed text from start to end, or by creating a rectangular frame around the area you want to extract. The second one is best suited for when the text and graphics are merged into a clipboard-unaware format. You can also extract content from an entire application window, or opt to save just the images and leave out the text. Kleptomania is designed to cover all possible cases in which you need to capture and process text. To do this, besides the above mentioned methods, Kleptomania also allows you to use a 'Smart selection' feature that combines the 'Native', 'Rectangle' and 'Window' capture modes. After a selection is made using any of its capture methods, a popup menu is displayed and you can use it to access all its available processing functions. From this menu, you can copy text, send it via email, as well as view the identified font, its size and color. The application also counts the number of lines, words and characters. Kleptomania can copy text in all formats, allowing the destination application to choose the appropriate formatting when inserted, but you can just as well choose to preserve the original font name, pitches and styling. With the copy function you can also add the last selection to clipboard, this way you can select multiple times and paste to the clipboard just once. It takes a bit of practice to get used to its functionality and to learn where each copying technique works best. But once you get familiarize with it, it's quite the indispensable tool. ## Kleptomania

Kleptomania is a tool that allows you to capture text and graphics from any kind of application based on the Textract technology. For the great site! – Yes this is an ugly UI indeed. But after all, when we're talking about a product with $999.99 price tag, you can't expect a top UI. Kleptomania was first released as a part of a 'pro' version of Textract, a text recognition product. Kleptomania is a part of a whole family of on-screen text extracting tools. They all do similar job: grab a small piece of text, process it and present you with the results, using a free application which is right there in the system tray, on the taskbar. Kleptomania has a simple but not very intuitive UI. However, it does a simple job. You can add a new capture frame or a text to clipboard by simply clicking on the frame or the text, selecting the text and clicking on the 'Add' button. To process the text you can choose to add the extracted text to your clipboard, view its fonts, colors and styles, or remove the current selection. All this functions works pretty fast and is very easy to use, the only downside is that you don't have a lot of customization options. Kleptomania has five capture modes which are described in the 'Capture' menu. The best one would be the native one, that works only in cases when the application's text is entered into the clipboard and the text is selected. You select the text area by using any of four options: 'Native', 'Rectangle', 'Size' and 'Window'. The rectangle mode is great for the scenarios when you're copying large chunks of text. It creates a small frame around the text area and when you click it, the selected text becomes available. If you want to select text only, just choose 'Native' mode. Kleptomania offers also a 'Smart' mode which combines 'Native', 'Rectangle' and 'Window' modes into one. This one is pretty self-explanatory: it simply selects text and adds it to your clipboard. If the clipboard is empty, it skips the text selection and adds only a rectangle. The 'Text
