I did setup working copy as it was suggested in my previous post. My problem is, that the `.hgsubstate` file is not getting deleted if I do an hg commit in the working copy. If I delete the file `.hgsubstate` from the local repo, the working copy gets deleted. Can someone please suggest me the correct way to resolve this issue. A: Renaming or deleting a working directory in a repository does not mean you can delete files in it. You might use `$ hg rm -f .hgsubstate` But it is also possible to do it from the commandline (for all files in your working directory), with: `$ hg strip .hgsubstate` If your problem is that you cannot commit, because `.hgsubstate` exists, there are a couple of things to try: Rename it manually and commit $ hg mv.hgsubstate.hgsubstate-backup $ hg commit.hgsubstate-backup Add a pre-commit hook and delete the file in it cd /path/to/working/dir/hg/repo/.hg/hgrc [hooks] pre-commit.delete-hgsubstate = rm -f
