The game is a hybrid between a medieval life sim and an RPG game. You can explore a large variety of areas, go to a new town, and even visit the Void... you just can't get more character interaction than this. Build your character by collecting items from open chests and kill monsters by finding the unique Legendary weapons that are scattered around the map, earning you levels and loot to customise your warrior. Use your new equipment to kill more monsters and even explore the world as a Ninja. Conquer the world! It's always exciting to claim another fortress for our lord and master! After the events of Reaper Of Souls are over, it'll be time to start a new uprising against the might of the Legion... with the help of the new regions and the vast world map! Can you claim all of them and ride to glory? ? The last of the Regnum Regions are being claimed for Lord Deathwing. Get ready to take the fight to the Legion's most dangerous zone! A NEW WORLD MAP IS HERE. What do you think about the new map, can you spot the new regions? THE MONTH OF ASTRAL BEAMS HAS ARRIVED. We're proud to announce that the 9th month of 2018 is "The Month of Astral Beams". We're planning to add 8 new planes/worlds to Dwarfheim and give out loot drops to players of these new regions! Learn more about the new regions and where to explore them over on our Discord Server! Another update with 7 new regions has just been released to the public. Thanks to our new zones as of right now: Added Void Is a region with no land area. It only consists of the Void itself - a series of platforms floating in mid-air. The Void is here to teach you how to claim. If you find an item within Void you'll be able to claim it by interacting with it. The more items you claim, the stronger your claim on the Void will become, and you'll be able to teleport freely through the Void. The Void was added to Dwarfheim on the 9th of February 2018. Right now there's no risk to claim it. If you want to claim it, teleport to the Void via your portal and open it with your claimed item. If you've claimed it, the claim cost will be 0. Heads up! There's

What's new in AereA - Artbook:

Game. Maybe there is a better solution out there but I tried that and I tried other hacky solutions, none of them work. So I made my own solution that should be pretty straightforward to implement. ~~~ cornellwright Yep, the problem was that you were completely reinventing the wheel, and you could have used the Kinect. It's normal to not reinvent the wheel when the wheel is made of foam and plastic instead of metal, but you'll never get the ball rolling unless you're experienced. There are in fact tons of existing solutions (Kinect included) for pointing at things to recognize, so you shouldn't have been trying to reinvent the wheel. ----- marssaxman Anything that you can do with the Kinect by faking it easily should be able to be done by the same hardware with a sound card or something. (Happy to be proven wrong, though.) ----- vezzy-fnord You could do something similar with an ANTLR-based TTY interpreter: The interesting fact here is that the "time vector" supported by ANTLR is sufficient to emulate the time axis of a real tape in terms of elapsed tape space. So you could do animated movies this way. ----- ZoF [ ~~~ marssaxman It's a start. I'm more curious about what video games are doing to train algorithms this way - possible? Q: Can  $a^n + b^n$  be expressed as a function of  $n^2$ ? It's easily proven that the usual polynomial factoring isomorphism  $n(n-1)\dots(n-k+1)(n+k)$  is not a function of  $\log n$ : A: Following Asaf Karagila's hint, we can write the sum as:  $a^n + b^n = (a+b)(a^{n-1} + a^{n-2}b + a^{n-3}b^2 + \dots + b^{n-1})$

Crusader Kings II takes place in the Medieval period and puts you in the shoes of a Frankish monarch. Guide your realm through a variety of turbulent times by building an impressive empire, recruiting knights and vassals, and forming dynasties. As you grow in power and influence you will rise through the ranks of the feudal system, gaining the support and respect of everyone. NOTE: We are using Windows Media Player as our player but any of the most popular browsers should be able to view the content of the download..

What's new with Conclave? The Conclave expansion offers some important gameplay upgrades, including:

- War: Brings court rivalries to a head when two vassals are at war and must both send their armies to the battlefield.
- Customisation: A new, text-based system for customising appearances, skills and housing.
- The Great Courtyard: An interactive map of the court and a new central location for land reform, tax and peace negotiation.
- Laws: A set of Laws that govern how your subjects react to your decisions. As your influence grows and your court flourishes, these laws come under your control and become more important.
- A New Dawn - The Creation of a new religion for a new century: You are no longer able to select the Christian Faith as the religion of your kingdom. Instead, you must have a single Pagan religion in your court (the current choice). However, you may switch between the Pagan faith or restore the Christian faith at any time.
- New Towns: A period of exploration in new towns and cities along the trade routes between the Mediterranean, India, China and Africa. After experiencing the Dominion System in the Renaissance Expansion, you will now see what happens when the System is changed to make it more Medieval.

The new Iron Age durations make for a "settling in" period where the court is allowed to make changes to the feudal order and to the buildings of the capital. Conclave is a stand-alone expansion and requires a valid copy of the game to install and play.
