Qualified Physically Immune Volunteers (PIVs) have been recognized and accepted since 1991 as a potential source of tissues for a limited quantity of fetal and placental tissues. The overall goal of this project is to facilitate the large-scale production and distribution of qualified PIVs tissues. In FY 2000, 437 PIVs (213 males and 224 females) were screened for HIV and hepatitis B virus (HBV). The PIVs were then contacted to provide informed consent for their participation in this study. Seventy-one PIVs consented to provide tissues. Tissue from two PIVs was inadvertently shipped with RNA from their blood samples and was found to be infected with HIV. Of the 71 tissues that could be tested, 10 (14%) were contaminated with HIV. At the present time, we are not pursuing any further attempts to obtain these tissues. A total of 144 target pregnancies were successfully booked (recruited) for the initial screening. The specific aims of this study are: (1) Screen qualified PIVs for the presence of HIV and hepatitis B virus (HBV) prior to delivery;(2) Screen PBMC from the qualified PIVs for the presence of HIV and HBV;(3) Screen T cell lines from the qualified PIVs for the presence of HIV and HBV;(4) If the tissue/cell lines are free of HIV and HBV e79caf774b
