“The feedback from the players in the beta helped us improve, refine and develop the overall game faster than we’ve ever experienced,” said Peter Dille, FIFA’s creative director. “We’re finally able to showcase our vision for the game, and get fans excited about a game they can see in their lifetimes. We’re very excited to announce the official release of EA SPORTS FIFA 22 on 11 August, and to bring the world’s most thrilling football game into even more homes.” “For the past several years, we’ve focused on making the most realistic, authentic and authentic-feeling game in the industry. Bringing the movement to life for players will be key to realizing the vision we want to convey in FIFA 22,” said Patrick Söderlund, CEO of EA Sports. “FIFA 21 did a great job of capturing that authenticity, and we’re excited to deliver that experience in the most high-end, premium game in sports gaming today with EA SPORTS FIFA 22.” The full game will be available on PlayStation 4, Xbox One and PC on 11 August. In addition to the new “HyperMotion Technology,” EA also announced that the game will include an immersive commentary, as well as additional national teams in new leagues, including China’s A-League, Italy’s Serie A and England’s Championship. FIFA Ultimate Team is updated to include playable English (through Premier League and FA Cup) and German (DFL) national teams. The game’s Cross Play feature can now bring players from a supported gaming platform to PS4, Xbox One, Switch, PC, mobile and online Battlefields. The new “Epic Moments” feature will bring more full, high-definition matches, as well as new gameplay and fan-requested moments. The “Infinite Fastest” mode, which allows players to compete at any time without waiting for the next match, will now include two new end-to-end and play-to-play match modes, plus the “Ultra” option to play games at a higher speed for all FIFA modes. As previously announced, FIFA 22 will also add a feature allowing players to “auto-predict” the direction of an incoming shot by tilting the Engine introduces an all-new game simulation system that will propel you to new heights. New Engine Visuals – The all-new “console look” will revolutionize how you look at soccer. Match day brings a fantasy-like intensity with beautiful visuals, and the improved lighting and textures produce a much crisper and sharper image. Dynamic crowds are now featured, with bigger and stronger models and realistic animations. Better Control and Skill Requirements – Control systems have been improved, making it easier to control your players. Players should feel more responsive and adapt to every situation. New goals and new shooting mechanics will help to make sure every shot is a real goal. New tactics support both offense and defense, with new options to force players to drop deeper and defend with a sweeper/centre-back, for example. Improved Player Skill Mechanics – Players will react to a press, receiving the ball more naturally. Defending has been reworked, adding more defensive responsibilities to players – and also a more realistic morale mechanic so players have more incentive to block shots and clear the ball. The intelligent goalkeeper AI will adjust and react in real time according to the situation. New Player Trajectories – Player runs have been reworked for a more realistic feel, with sprints and accelerations at a much higher speed than FIFA 19.

The game also includes more than 500 officially licensed stadiums, more than 400 official equipment items, a special match-day atmosphere complete with chants, crowd noise and stadium ambiance, as well as many unique moves and celebrations. Play Modes There are various play modes available in the game, each of which has been tailored to produce a unique and authentic simulation experience. FIFA Ultimate Team In FIFA Ultimate Team, you customize your soccer player's look, share your players with friends and take part in FIFA tournaments. As the player's level increases, you can also add more players to your collection. One of the biggest draws of the game is its ability to let you earn player cards. These cards are what you need to buy packs of players and each one comes with its own level, condition and attributes. You can also raise your level by completing challenges, earning card packs by playing friendly matches and winning coin packs. Aside from cards, you can also earn coins, which you can spend on packs and items. You can also play FIFA Ultimate Team games against your friends and upload your wins and losses so that you can see how you are improving. FIFA Live FIFA Live is the live simulation aspect of the game, meaning that the simulation is constantly in motion as it has to follow football rules. Players engage in manual tackles, manual passes, manual interceptions, manual shots and other interactions that occur on a real football field. In FIFA
