the UK has fallen below the level needed to maintain the population, underlining the fact that the UK has begun to “age out of the baby-boom generation”. An analysis of the latest figures by the Institute for Fiscal Studies (IFS) found that there were 6,836,658 births in England and Wales in 2018, the lowest number since records began. The IFS calculated that the number of births should be around 6.8 million per year to keep the population stable. Between 1.3 million babies were born in England and Wales in 2018. The analysis drew attention to the fact that since the year 2000, the number of children born in England
