Call our New York personal injury attorneys today. Discovery and Trial Methodology We use a hybrid of the traditional “trial-by-ambush” and “trial-by-examination” model of witness discovery and trial tactics. Our law firm has many years of experience in preparing personal injury cases for trial. We have developed a trial methodology that we use to efficiently prepare cases for trial. First, we go over all of the information that will be produced or presented to the jury (if a jury trial takes place). At this time, we will often examine written documents that contain a significant amount of information. Next, our lawyers will go over the witness's deposition transcript. After the witness's deposition, we will utilize our method of video-chats with the witness. After this discovery is done, our personal injury lawyers will go over the remaining portions of the case. We will either review the documents our clients gave us, or we will review information that is provided by our clients. We will continue to interview witnesses on the case. Next, our lawyers will interview all of the doctors that are involved in the case. After all of the interviews are complete, we will re-review the depositions. Next, we will continue to interview the remaining witnesses.
